Stories on the natural habitats and sea critters of the marine reserve.

Stories in Newsletters or special articles will be written or commissioned to cover the natural environment, the groups of marine biota and their interactions, as a resource for understanding, study and awareness of the special marine environments of the South Coast and the Taputeranga Marine Reserve. These articles provide interpretation resources for the Island Bay Snorkel Trail.

We are also transferring articles and notes on sea critters and habitats from Newsletters and elsewhere to our main website pages, to be found under ‘Marine Life’.
